FOUND $9,000 ON TRAIN

Conductor Restores Valise Left in Car by Forgetful Passenger.

Ashtabula, O., April 6.—Lake Shore Conductor William R. Miles of Oil City, Pa., who runs on a passenger train out of Ashtabula to Oil City, yesterday found a valise in one of the coaches of his train containing $9,000 in currency. The bills were wrapped up in packets of $100 each. There was no name on the valise and no clue to its ownership. Miles later received a message to the effect that a valise containing that sum of money had been lost by William C. Luman of Leon, O., who has come to Ashtabula and drawn the money from the bank and had then boarded the train for home, intending to pay a force of men employed by him. He had left the train at Leon and forgotten the valise. The money was restored to the owner.

ACCUSED OR MURDER.

Farrington Pleads Not Guilty But Is Held Without Bail.

East Sumner, Me., April 6.—Henry Farrington, who is said to have confessed to the officers that he killed Eugene Brant with a shotgun in self-defense at a woodchoppers' camp near here, Tuesday afternoon, was formally arraigned yesterday before Trial Justice Parsons of Buckfield. The verdict reached at the coroner's inquest was as follows: "That Eugene Brant came to his death as the result of a gunshot wound by the hand of Henry L. Farrington."

A complaint charging Farrington with murder was read, and he pleaded not guilty. After several witnesses were examined Farrington was held without bail to await the action of the supreme court at the October term at South Paris. Seven witnesses were introduced by the state to show cause for holding Farrington for the higher court. The condition of affairs at the camp the condition of Brant's body, and his mutilated head, the admissions of Farrington to several people about the village, and whether or not Farrington had been drinking were testified to. Farrington was not put upon the stand.

RATE AMENDMENT FIASCO

Stone Sorry, But Not Surprised — He Sees the Definite Surrender of the President in the Long Amendment.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—When the Senate convened yesterday Mr. Elkins gave notice that on today he would address the Senate on the railroad rate bill. The rate bill was then taken up, and Mr. Newlands continued his argument in support of his proposition for the national incorporation of railroad companies.

Senator Stone spoke in support of the bill, yesterday. He dealt especially with the amendment that it gives the railroads all they can possibly ask for, but before taking up that branch of the subject he discussed the general question at length, saying, among other things, that as the bill stands it provides sufficiently for a judicial review of the order of the proposed commission. Regarding the Long amendment, he said that while it was proposed by the senator from Kansas, the President of the United States is its author. Giving his version of the origin of the provision, he said:

"On Sunday last the papers contained an account of a meeting at the White House of numerous Republican senators for consultation with the President and the attorney-general. It is reported that for some hours they sat in solemn conclave in the rate bill, and in due course the amendment proposed by the senator from Kansas was introduced."

In the course of his speech Mr. Stone referred to the commission's action in intrusting Mr. Tillman with the charge of the bill, and proceeded:

"Then a war cry, not quite so resonant as a war, but still defiant, issued from the White House. The President as he is accustomed to do on great occasions, forthwith summoned the newspaper correspondents to his august presence, and through them informed the country that he would stand resolutely and unshaken for the House bill and against any amendment authorizing a court review of the orders of the commission. Since then, however, whisperings have come of concessions, concessions and compromises. Those of little faith took on a prophetic aspect and smiled, while those of great faith still vowed their confidence in the unyielding firmness of the iron man at the White House."

"But those of little faith were the wisest. The President's abject surrender has justified their prophecies. If this amendment proposed by the President, through the senator from Kansas, contains anything the railroads do not want, it will require the supreme acumen of a lawyer as versatile and obliging as the present attorney-general, who has 'O. K.'d' the amendment, to point

RAILROADS TOO SELFISH.

J. C. Clement Says Public Cannot Rely on Them for Fair Treatment.

Washington, April 6.—The feature of the meeting of the National Association of Railway Commissioners yesterday was the address of Judson C. Clements, interstate commerce commissioner, who announced it as his opinion that "the public cannot rely upon the selfish interest of the carriers to see that no injustice is done to any shipper, locality, or commodity." By the admissions of the carriers themselves, he said, this must be so.

$50,000,000 For Indians.

Washington, April 6.—The House committee on Indian affairs yesterday authorized a favorable report on the Burke bill providing for the allotment and distribution of Indian tribal funds. These funds aggregate $50,000,000, and are to be distributed to individual Indians on the order of the President, who upon the application of the Indian shall determine his fitness to relinquish the tribal relations and become a citizen of the United States.

CHILDREN

If You Have Any Ailing Ones This Will Interest You.

"We see so many little boys and girls about town who are weak, thin-legged and hollow-cheeked," said Mr. Wells of Rickert & Wells, our well known druggists, "it seems a shame to allow them to remain so, for they will grow up into weak, sickly and nervous men and women, without the vitality to work or enjoy life."

"If," continued Mr. Wells, "the fathers and mothers of such children would believe what we say of Vinol, we would see a great difference in the appearance of the younger generation of this city. You know Vinol is not a patent medicine, and is just the tonic giving children need. It will make for them good, healthy flesh, sound bone, hard muscles, and rich, red blood."

"True, Vinol is a cod liver oil preparation, but it does not contain a drop of oil, or any bad tasting feature. It is so delicious that all children love it, yet it actually does contain all the medicinal curative elements found in fresh cod's livers, and is the most wholesome and best medicine for children we ever sold."

"It is because we know what Vinol will do that we guarantee if it fails to make your children well, rugged and rosy, to refund your money." Rickert & Wells, Druggists.

the members of the Gridiron club and other guests.

The text of the speech was "The Man With the Muck Rake," in which the President compared certain publishers and writers with the famous character in "Elgin's Progress." He denounced the men who devote their energies to an exploitation in a sensational way of the graft and rascality which they by any means can rake up, ignoring at the same time the good in the world, which the President believes is predominant.

NO RECORD OF HALF A MILLION DOLLARS OF STATE BUSINESS.

By an arrangement inaugurated in 1879 during the term of Redfield Proctor as governor the state of Vermont went into the marble business by proxy.

The state's credit, the state's money, the state's premises and the state's labor were involved. The gross business has been, in round numbers, half a million dollars.

Certain men are appointed, certain men are employed, marble is bought, worked up and marketed. A big business is conducted, large sums of money are received and paid out and yet not a line appears in any state report to show how these funds are administered. This business is the marble shop in connection with the House of Correction at Rutland.

Perhaps the arrangement is all right; perhaps this employment of convict labor is a good idea. The point is there is absolutely NO ACCOUNT MADE TO THE PEOPLE OF VERMONT as to how this business of their's is handled.

Haven't Vermonters a right to know how this labor and material is handled? Would any business concern adopt the say-so of the individual? Isn't this whole proposition subject to ordinary business principles?

There is no reason why Vermont marble sheds at the House of Correction, where her convicts are employed, should not come under the same rules as any other state department.

There is no reason why every dollar expended should not be covered by voucher and every dollar received paid into the treasury.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT OF COVERING UP THE STATE'S BUSINESS?

This unaudited and unchecked business of half a million ought to be made the subject of a frank investigation. If desirable it might be continued, in which case it should be made a state department, subject to the scrutiny of the proper state officers and under their control.

The books of the state's marble shed show certain sums paid to the House of Correction.

WASTE MILLIONS.

Bonaparte Shows How Navy's Changed Policy Results.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—The charges made during this session of Congress that there has been gross extravagance in the navy department have been admitted. Secretary Bonaparte, in response to the demand of Chairman Tawney of the House appropriations committee, has written a letter showing a partial statement of the expenditures. Mr. Tawney wanted the expenditures of all the bureaus of the departments for 10 years.

Secretary Bonaparte says that he cannot furnish this information. He gives a statement of two bureaus for the year 1905 only. It bears out the charges of the House leaders that the navy department has wasted millions of dollars as the result of changing the plans of war vessels, ordering new specifications and altering plans after work had actually begun. It shows that in 1905 the bureau of construction wasted $425,000 in this way. At this rate for 10 years the extravagance would average $4,250,000 for changes in specifications and plans. The expenditure of this money was not only an extravagance, but it has been claimed by Chairman Tawney in violation of the law. In the bureau of steam engineering a difference of only $2,000 for 1905 is shown. No figures for other bureaus are given out by the secretary.

SHE SAVED HIM FROM MOB.

Woman Declares She Will Be Tarred and Feathered, Too.

Rochester, N. Y., April 6.—A mob composed of residents of North Rose and vicinity surrounded the home of Willard Jeffers Wednesday night, intending to tar and feather Samuel Wright, of whose conduct the mob did not approve. The spokesman asked for Wright, and when he appeared at the door he was seized and stripped of his clothing. Wright begged for mercy, and Mrs. Jeffers also pleaded for him, saying that they would have to tar and feather her if they did Wright.

The woman was so insistent that Wright was released, the raiders exacting a promise that he would leave town in twenty-four hours. Wright is twenty-one years old. Mrs. Jeffers, who is twenty-eight, has two children.
